

University of Alaska Anchorage	Section EHS/RMS
ADMINISTRATIVE SERVICES MANUAL	Statement 6
Policies and Procedures	Page 1 of 3
Title FOOD SERVICE SANITATION	Effective Date 05/07/2012

Routine Inspections

UAA food service operations are subject to inspection by Municipality of Anchorage's Sanitarians and/or EHS/RMS. EHS/RMS may conduct routine inspections of all food service units operated by the University or operated on University property and will respond to food sanitation complaints, regardless of their source. The minimum standards acceptable for food unit operations are those described in Municipality of Anchorage regulations. Results of inspections will be discussed with the food service manager or other appropriate supervisory personnel, followed by a written report to appropriate staff.

*Inspection
Recommendations*

The recommendations resulting from inspections will be provided to the Housing Officer who may consult with EHS/RMS regarding resolution. The decision to d4(m)21(i)9g reo diinue4(a)4 3saeAppeals of a specific decision

Special Occasions

Food service provided for special occasions and activities must be approved by EHS/RMS intended food sale or service. This approval requirement does not apply to events that are catered by UAA Food Service or contracted and licensed food vendors.

University of Alaska Anchorage	Section EHS/RMS
ADMINISTRATIVE SERVICES MANUAL	Statement 6
Policies and Procedures	Page 3 of 3
Title FOOD SERVICE SANITATION	Effective Date 05/07/2012

and receives basic food sanitation training. Again, food must be obtained from commercial and inspected sources and home made items with the exception of dried baked goods are prohibited. Barbequing and serving of inspected meat is allowed at these picnics as long as the conditions of the permit and food sanitation are met.

Wild Game

Wild game and fermented meats (moose, beaver, bear, fowl and their eggs, caribou, bison, marine mammals, etc.) are prohibited from serving to the public. While these foods are an important cultural aspect of many